ROUNDUP

WADE HOLMES, WPGC

* * *

Station WPGC's Wade Holmes who shares d.j. honors with Johnny Baise on the Morningside, Maryland, station's Monday - through - Saturday Country song show, "Cornshucking Time," is another of those all-around, naturally talented musicians who always seem to make the best C&W emcees and deejays.

Tall, not-so-dark and handsome Wade can hold his own on the guitar, bass, banjo and mandolin, and at thirty he has already made a niche for himself around Maryland way by playing with such top local outfits as bands led by Hank Penny, Clyde Moody, Pete Caspell and the Woodward Brothers. At present, Wade plays with the "Cornshuckers" and livens up the evenin' in various Maryland clubs as a picker and singer.

Wade is a family man (four little Holmes') and loves to putter 'round his garden (when he's not fishing, that is).
